DISCUSSION FORUM

Accessing the discussion forum

Once logged into your ThinCats account you will see various buttons on the home screen. Click on the 'Forum' button to proceed.

If you are elsewhere on the system, you can always click the speech bubble icon found in the top header to access the forum.

Forum Sections

The first screen you will see when accessing the forums is a choice of Forum Sections. These are categories which help group forum threads based on similar topics. Clicking on the 'View' button to the right of a forum section will display the threads contained within.

Threads are displayed with those most recently updated at the top. To the top right-hand side of the page you will find a search box which will allow you to search for a particular thread.

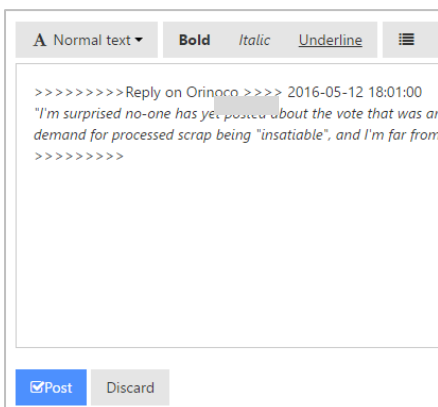

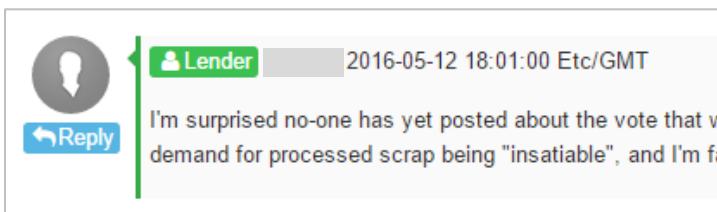

To read the comments within a thread, select the subject name to access the discussion.

Once in a thread, you will find previous posts made by other members. To add to the discussion, you will find a reply box at the bottom of the page.

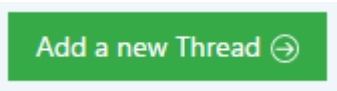

When ready to submit your reply, click the 'Post' button and your message will be added to the thread.

Alternatively, you can click the reply button to the side of a user's post. This will take you to the reply box and populate it, quoting the user. You can then type your response below this.

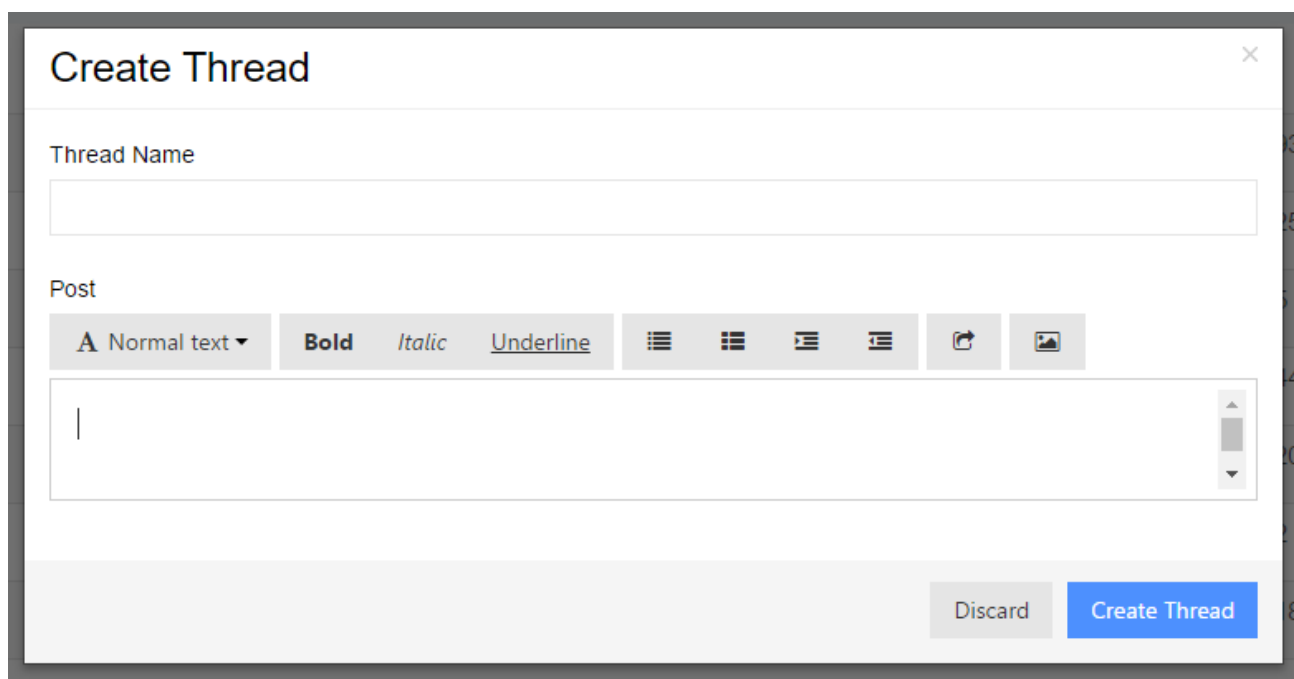

Add a new thread

To add a new thread, click on the 'Add a new Thread' button within a forum section.

This will bring up a pop up box, where you can name your thread and add your post.

Once ready to publish, click the 'Create Thread' button.
